PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES

WELFARE AND EMPOWERMENT

Dr. Ankita Kumari

In 1992, the United Nations proclaimed 3rd December as International Day of Persons with Disabilities (IDPD). The Day is observed the world over every year, intending to promote the rights and well-being of Persons with Disabilities (PwDs) by increasing awareness of the situation of PwDs in every aspect of political, social, economic, and cultural life. This year, the theme of IDPD is "Leadership and participation of PwDs toward an inclusive, accessible and sustainable post-COVID-19 world."

In India, every year on the occasion of the International Day of Persons with Disabilities (IDPD), National Awards for the Empowerment of PwDs are conferred to individuals/institutions/states/districts for outstanding achievements in the empowerment of PwDs. The awards are given under the following 14 categories:- i) Best employees/self-employed with disabilities (ii) (a) Best employers (b) Best placement officer or agency (iii) (a) Best individual (b) Best institution working for the cause of PwDs (iv) Role Model (v) Best applied research or innovation or product development aimed at improving the lives of PwDs (vi) Outstanding work in the creation of a barrier-free environment for the PwDs (vii) Best district in providing rehabilitation services (viii) Best state channelizing agency of National Handicapped Federation Development Corporation (ix) Outstanding creative adult PwDs (x) Best creative child with disabilities (xi) Best braille press (xii) Best "accessible" website (xiii) Best state in promoting the empowerment of PwDs and implementation of Accessible India Campaign; and (xiv) Best sportsperson with disability.

Various factors cause disabilities, some of which are known and some are difficult to ascertain. In case of known causes, preventive measures can help reduce the incidence of disability, both congenital and acquired. In the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (RPwD) Act, 2016, disability has been defined based on an evolving and dynamic concept. The Act enumerates 21 types of disabilities instead of the earlier seven types and gives the central government authority to revise the list from time to time. It replaces the Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995, fulfilling obligations under the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities

CIVIL SERVICES (MAIN) EXAMINATION

STRATEGIES TO CONQUER THE SYLLABUS

S B Singh

Anyone familiar with the Civil Services Examination should know that this examination is a multi-level test comprising three stages: the preliminary exam, the main exam, and finally, the interview. The preliminary exam aims to screen candidates and weed out lakhs of non-serious and underprepared candidates. The main exam comprising four General Study papers, one optional subject (comprising two papers), one essay, and two language papers, constitutes the bulk of the entire testing process. All these papers are compulsory, and every candidate has to attempt these. The main exam accounts for 1750 marks (language papers are qualifying in nature, hence not taken into account while calculating the merit). Each of the four GS papers carries 250 marks. The essay paper carries 250 marks, and the two papers for the optional subject also carry 250 marks each. The interview/ personality test carries 275 marks. The marks obtained in the interview add to the candidate's total score in the main exam and accordingly indicate the candidate's overall ranking.

The best way to understand the rationale of the main exam is to decipher what UPSC has stated in its notification. As per the notification, the following points are to be considered carefully:

1. Objective: The main exam intends to assess the candidate's overall intellectual traits and depth of understanding rather than merely the range of their information.

2. Nature of GS papers: The nature and standard of questions in GS papers will be such that a well-educated person will answer them without any specialized study. The questions will test a candidate's general awareness of various subjects relevant to a career in civil services. The questions test the candidate's basic understanding of the relevant issues and ability to analyze and make decisions on conflicting socio-economic goals, objectives, and demands. The candidates must give relevant, meaningful, and succinct answers.

3. Nature of optional papers: The scope of syllabus for optional papers is broadly of the honours degree level, i.e., a level higher

Geopolitical Importance of Delhi Regional Security Meet on Afghanistan

Interview

Allaying speculations about India's conspicuous absence from international discussions on Afghanistan despite legitimate stakes, New Delhi recently hosted the national security advisor-level regional security meet on Afghanistan. This was seen as a strong effort by New Delhi to fight back the notion that any lasting solution to Afghanistan can be discussed without India in the room. The meet having the participation of Russia, Iran, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan, also showed how strongly regional countries are stepping up at this critical time to underline the need for stability in the war-torn nation as well as the urgent requirement to combat transnational terrorism. China and Pakistan were also invited to the table, but they chose to stay out. The conference deliberated upon measures to address the relevant security challenges and support required by the people of Afghanistan in promoting peace, and stability.

Employment News spoke to security analyst Shri Kabir Taneja on the significance of the dialogue and whether it has set the tone for India's policy vis-à-vis the Taliban government in Afghanistan. Shri Kabir Taneja, is an author and Fellow with Strategic Studies Program, Observer Research Foundation. His research focuses on India's relation with West Asia, specifically domestic political dynamics, terrorism, non-state militant actors and the general security paradigm of the region.

Question: How do you view the regional security dialogue on Afghanistan hosted by New Delhi recently?

Kabir Taneja: The Delhi regional security dialogue was a good thing. India has been sort of left out of the entire Afghanistan debate for a while now and it comes from a difficult position that has emerged in Afghanistan with the coming of Taliban in power. So, India is managing to put this forum together, inviting all major stakeholders on regional security coming from Afghanistan fallout is an important debate to happen now. We are late at it. I think it should have been done much earlier. India could have been more nimble on its feet when reacting to what is happening in Kabul, but better late than never. So it is a good initiative. The takeaway is that it has been established that there needs to be much more debate on what to do now? And I think the main concern at the moment should be the humanitarian crisis that is developing in Afghanistan because if that gets out of hand then all other variable such as terrorism, extremism have a large chance of increase in Afghanistan which is not good news for the region in general.

Question: Taliban have been reiterating their commitment to fair and transparent relationship with all neighbour countries. Do you see that happening?

Kabir Taneja: At the moment the Taliban is craving for legitimacy from the international order. If you see as a comparative in 1996 when the Taliban came to power in Afghanistan, they had got legitimacy from Saudi Arabia, UAE and Pakistan. Those three countries offered them legitimacy, but this time they are actually worse off despite having "more moderate position" on how they are planning to govern Afghanistan, they haven't had any country came up straight forward and saying that they legitimately recognize the Taliban regime. So they are looking at the level of acceptance from the international order. And we see that beyond a point they are borderline desperate to gain that sort of legitimacy. Now, who is going to offer it and who is going to take that first step, no one knows. For example, Pakistan has accepted Taliban officials to run the embassy and consulate inside Pakistan. That is a level of legitimacy but that still does not mean that Pakistan has come forward and officially recognized the Taliban regime. So we are going to hear a lot of this in the time to come that the Taliban are saying that they are working towards more moderate sort of political order which is going to be more palatable to the international community. So we have to wait and watch. It is very difficult to say at this point of time, but the Taliban are going to push for the legitimacy from the international order in any way or the other.

SPOTLIGHT

Question: Taliban has been arguing that the current government in Afghanistan is inclusive and that nowhere in the world there is a government where the opposition has equal stake. How do you see this comment considering major powers are insisting the government in Afghanistan be made more inclusive?

Kabir Taneja: The Taliban can really stand up and say, "Look how many Republicans are there in Democrat government of President Joe Biden?" and "How many Congress leaders are there in BJP government?" I mean it's a valid theoretical argument to make, but really doesn't have much feet to stand on. It sounds great to say in conferences or at public dialogue and something like that. But, what is the political opposition to the Taliban? Is it the Tajiks, Uzbeks or the erstwhile democratically government ousted by the Taliban by force. The argument of opposition doesn't hold merit in the way the Taliban is presenting it. They can even say that we have some people from the Tajiks, the Uzbeks, and the Shia Hazaras as part of our political structure. But they are all periphery. It is a largely Pashtun-led regime that has taken over and even within that it is between the Haqqanis and the Kandaharis for example; take a step back and ask yourself, "where is Mullah Biradar?" He is the Deputy Prime Minister and co-founder of the Taliban movement. But we rarely hear or see him in any shape of form. So it's all well and good to say in those emphatic terms. There are a lot of things which the Taliban can say which will make sense from a theoretical point of view but that is not how the world works. The Taliban, more than anyone else, would know that.

Question: What are the chances of India inviting the Taliban for the next Delhi Regional Security Dialogue? If yes, what would be the implications?

Kabir Taneja: I think India should engage with the Taliban and they have been doing so. But I do believe that the better positioning to do so is going to be in Doha itself. I don't think there is requirement for India at this point of time to invite the Taliban at the regional security dialogue. Of course the dynamics may change now that the dialogue has happened. We still have to wait and watch the way political order by Taliban is ultimately going to cement. You have to remember the current government in Afghanistan is an interim government in Taliban owns words. So, there has to be a permanent sort of political structure that has to come into play. And we will see that it will come into play over the next couple of months that is if the Taliban will be able to maintain the momentum around themselves, they are able to carry the Afghan people but they are also able to carry the Taliban cadre itself into a more mundane political system where there is no fighting hopefully and where everyone is doing the kind of work they are handed to do as "public servants". It is very difficult to say right now unless a proper political order comes into shape which as inclusive and acceptable to international order, I really don't think there is a requirement for Taliban to be invited to New Delhi. Because if the Taliban is invited to New Delhi, India cannot pick and choose who comes. The Taliban may say there are coming with Khalil Haqqani because he is a part of their cabinet and then if India says no, automatically the whole deal is not going to happen. So, I think the best thing is to keep the Taliban engaged through an open channel - the Doha process which already exists. We have also seen that the American interests are going to be represented in Kabul through the Qatari embassy. I think Qatar is a good mediator or continuing to be a decent mediator when it comes to these kind of issues. Having said that, I don't think there is anything wrong if the Indians are sitting on the same table as the Taliban on other forums such as in Moscow or Tehran.

Question: Is being seen close to the US affecting India's image regionally?

Kabir Taneja: It is going to have some repercussions…not repercussions per se but a sort of after taste for others such as Russia and Iran specifically for example. But, on the other hand, they also know that India's closeness with the US is largely coming from the Indo-Pacific front which doesn't have to a lot to do with Afghanistan or almost has nothing to do with Afghanistan. There have been analysts who have been propagating that the Indo-Pacific framework should also apply to the security situation of Afghan. But I think this is a very dangerous line to walk on. Indo-Pacific is geographically defined region and issue. I don't think the QUAD framework, for example, would have much to do with Afghanistan. Of course, they can have debates and discussions on the extended security implications of the Afghanistan issue. But, when it comes to more regional or bilateral takes on the Taliban, or talks with the Taliban, or talks amongst regional stakeholders and the Taliban, I don't think the Indo-US bonhomie is going to be much of an issue.

Question: How do you suggest India should go about managing its ties with China now, given that it's affecting New Delhi's foreign policy elsewhere, including in Afghanistan?

Kabir Taneja: When it comes to China, India has to be realistic about what it is. China is second largest economy, and second largest military in the world. China is not in competition with India. China is in competition with the US. We have to be very clear about that. You know India is in competition with China but China is not necessarily in competition with India. Even when comes to issues like border skirmishes and what happened in Galwan. So, it will be engagement and containment at the same time. We cannot sever relations with China. Even through the pandemic, India-China trade has only gone up, specifically after the economies opened up a little bit. But having said that, side by side India is doing some correct measures. There is an increase in the self-reliance debates and policies. There is an increased tendency of trying to make sure of at least a certain level of India's defense procurement is indigenous. That also is very difficult to do overnight. It is a long process but at least there is some beginning towards that goal. China is a reality and we have to deal with the nuance and not bravado and I think the government knows that. China is a $15 trillion economy and we are $3 trillion economy. We have much more to lose when comes to large scale conflict with an entity like China than the Chinese do at this point of time. But this of course does not mean that you lower your guard down; you have to keep the pressure on the Chinese as well.

Question: How important is Afghanistan for India in the changed circumstances? How should India proceed to deal with the Taliban government?

Kabir Taneja: Afghanistan is important by its geography and its cultural and historical ties with India. Afghanistan is also very important as far as security is concerned. If Afghanistan becomes a hub for international terrorism, radicalization, extremism and is going to be have direct implications for India's security. We already have tremendous pressure from our borders when it comes to Pakistan and China and even Myanmar these days. So we have hot fronts on almost all our borders. So, complete fallout in Afghanistan which is not mitigated will have severe security implications for India. It gives Pakistan a lot of headroom to operate anti-India activities with the kind of geographic, strategic depth and gives countries like China much stronger foothold in the region when it comes to economic and political activities. As I said earlier, India has been very late to the game and it is time for India now to put the money where the mouth is. Hopefully we receive some concrete policy measures how to deal with the Afghanistan and Taliban in the coming months and that of course depends on what kind of ecosystem the Taliban develops. So while the wait and watch policy is fine now, but there is need to take much more realistic take on how to deal with Afghanistan if the Taliban do manage to hold power for considerable period of time.

CIVIL SERVICES (MAIN) EXAMINATION STRATEGIES ...

than the bachelor's degree and a level lower than the master's degree.

4. Qualifying papers on Indian languages and English: The papers test a candidate's ability to read and understand serious discursive prose and express ideas clearly and correctly in English and the concerned Indian languages.

Interview/ Personality test

There is a gap of three months between the main written exam and the interview. The interview is an integral part of the main exam and should be viewed from this perspective. Ideally, while preparing for the mains, the candidate should also keep the interview in mind because many questions in the interview will arise from the topics of the main syllabus. A clever candidate understands this linkage between the mains preparation and the interview test and always keeps the interview preparation at the back of his mind. There is nothing like a different preparation for the interview. It is part of a daily quest for knowledge on various topics. In the original words of UPSC, "the object of the interview test is to assess the personal suitability of the candidates for a career in public service by a board of competent, unbiased observers. The interview test is intended to judge the mental calibre of a candidate. Some of the qualities to be judged are: mental alertness, critical power of assimilation, clear and logical exposition, balance of judgement, ability for social cohesion and leadership, intellectual and moral integrity."

Deciphering the GS syllabus for the mains: There are four GS papers in the main exam. They are both multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary. For example, GS paper one combines disciplines like history, culture, geography, society, population, etc. Each syllabus component needs to be prepared, not just history and geography. In GS paper two, the syllabus comprises polity, governance, international relations, social issues, civil society, NGOs etc. Just reading polity and international relations would be half the preparation. By interdisciplinary, it is implied that your knowledge should be across various domains. For example, poverty cannot be understood without reference to economics, social discrimination, unequal international economic structures etc.

Strategy for the mains: For any competitive examination, the safest approach is to stay close to the prescribed syllabus, understand the objectives spelled out by the examination conducting body, and prepare accordingly. This applies most to the civil services main exam, which is all about precision and accuracy. The main components of this strategy are:

- Finishing the syllabus well in advance: Since the mains exam is conducted within three months of the preliminary exam, the time gap between the preliminary and main exam is insufficient to cover the entire syllabus. It will require at least six to eight months of hard, committed study to cover all the mains papers. So, ideally, you must acquire good command over the mains syllabus at least six months before you start preparing for the prelims.
- Prioritising your preparation: You should never get on with preparations without a detailed plan. For efficient, output-based preparation, you need to know what to do first and what to do next. So, prepare a road map for an entire year of preparation and adhere to it no matter what.
- Giving top priority to the optional subject: It is wise to acquire command over the optional subject in advance, given its large syllabus. It would be wise to refer to various sources and jot down notes in a systematic manner. This exercise is time-consuming, and it will not be possible at the last moment. Most importantly, the optional subject is very decisive in your ranking because it carries a total 500 marks (250 marks each for paper I and II). Another advantage of relying on the optional subject is its reliability. This implies that the syllabus of the optional paper is very clearly given; the books are readily available on all optional subjects compared to the GS papers, which do not have a clearly laid down syllabus, and quality source materials are scattered.
- Give extra emphasis on the optional subject together with ethics and the essay paper. It is next to impossible to gain an equal command over all the mains subjects. Even toppers cannot claim that kind of complete command. Therefore, it makes better sense to excel in some subjects and score high marks in those. The optional subject, together with the ethics and essay paper, provides an excellent opportunity to score. This is so because ethics and essay papers can fetch more marks if studied from the right perspectives than other GS papers. Secondly, these two papers are more about developing normative skills, thought processes, and daily experiences than following a traditional syllabus like polity, history, geography etc.
- Balanced preparation: One must strike a balance between all the mains papers. It would help if you did not overspend your time on a particular paper to neglect other papers. Unless you perform well in all the mains papers, getting high marks will be impossible.
- Analysis of previous five years questions: On each topic of your choice, first develop a good understanding, and then look for questions asked by the UPSC in the last five years. Doing so would give you a more precise idea of the topic and its various dimensions. Not only this, give a good thought as to what kind of additional questions can be framed by the UPSC on the topic and how you are going to answer them.
- Answer writing style: Do not make unnecessary charts and diagrams. UPSC answers are best written in essay form except where a diagram is relevant to highlight your argument.
- Role of correct terminology: Remember to use the right terminology for the paper you are attempting. For example, if you are writing on international relations, judicious use of terms like strategic autonomy, geopolitics, geoeconomics, multilateralism, multipolar world, etc. will serve you better. Similarly, in ethics, terms like compassion, kindness, generosity, benevolence, virtue, values, norms etc. should be appropriately used.
- Know your sources: Unless you derive your study material from authentic sources, you will not develop a good understanding of the subject. There is a general tendency for candidates to rely on compiled material provided by commercial institutes, or online lectures freely available on YouTube. I am not suggesting that they are useless. My point is that when better, reliable, original sources are available, why go for other sources? Remember, those who set questions for the main exam will not pick questions from market sources. They will always rely on standard sources like books, journals, government reports.
- Maintain speed in writing: Writing more than twenty questions in each GS paper is a stupendous task that requires enormous practice. Many candidates are not able to finish the paper in three hours though they would know the answer. The best way to overcome this challenge is by practicing in advance.

Putting the right strategy in practice is a challenge in itself, and it requires discipline, hard work, and perseverance.

Meaning and Definition of Disability

A person can be handicapped in a specific environment without being disabled or have a disability but not be handicapped in many places. A disability is often defined as the malfunctioning, disturbance, or loss in the normal functioning of physical, mental, or psychological processes, or difficulty in learning or adjusting socially, which interferes with normal growth and development. As per the Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act, 2016 (RPwD Act), Persons with Disabilities, Person with Benchmark Disability, and Person with Disability having High Support Needs have the following meanings:

Person with Disability- a person with long-term physical, mental, intellectual, or sensory impairment which, in interaction with barriers, hinders his full and effective participation in society equally with others;

Person with Benchmark Disability- a person with not less than forty percent of a specified disability where specified disability has not been defined in measurable terms and includes a person with disability where specified disability has been defined in measurable terms, as certified by the certifying authority;

Person with Disability having High Support Needs- a person with benchmark disability certified under clause (a) of sub-section (2) of section 58 of the Act who needs high support.

Population estimates of PwDs

According to Census 2011, there are 2.68 crore PwDs in India (2.21 percent of the total population). Out of the total population of PwDs, approximately 1.50 crore are men, and 1.18 crore are women. These include persons with visual, hearing, speech, and locomotor disabilities, mental illness, mental retardation (intellectual disabilities), multiple disabilities, and other disabilities. As per the Office of the Registrar General & Census Commissioner India, about 36% of PwDs are working (male- 47% and female-23%). Among the workers with disabilities, 31% constitute agricultural laborers. Fifty percent of the PwD population in the age group of 15-59 years is working, whereas 4% of children with disabilities in the age group below 14 years are working.

Constitutional Rights

The Constitution of India, through its Preamble, inter-alia seeks to secure to all its citizens; Justice, social, economic, and political; Liberty of thought, expression, belief, faith, and worship; Equality of status and opportunity. The relevant extracts of the Eleventh Schedule (Article 243-G) ensures social welfare, including the welfare of the handicapped and mentally retarded" (entry no. 26), and Twelfth Schedule (Article 243-W) speaks of safeguarding the interests of weaker sections of society, including the handicapped and mentally retarded (entry no. 09).

Laws dealing with protection and welfare of the disabled

There are four legislations: Rehabilitation Council of India Act, 1992; Rights of PwDs Act, 2016; National Trust for the Welfare of Persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation, and Multiple Disabilities Act, 1999 and Mental Health Care Act, 2017. The Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, Government of India, deals with the first three legislations. The Ministry of Health and Family Welfare, Government of India, deals with the fourth legislation.

The Rehabilitation Council of India Act, 1992: The Act provides for the constitution of the Rehabilitation Council of India (RCI) for regulating the training of rehabilitation professionals and the maintenance of a Central Rehabilitation Register (CRR) and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. Across the country, approximately 750 Teacher Training Institutes and 14 State Open Universities are running RCI approved courses. They offer Certificate to M.Phil-level courses. At present, 60 courses are operational through regular mode covering all the 16 categories of professionals/personnel allocated to RCI.

The National Trust for the Welfare of Persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation and Multiple Disabilities Act, 1999: The Government of India enacted the Act with objective to provide for the constitution of a body at the national level for the Welfare of Persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation and Multiple Disabilities and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. The trust aims to provide total care to persons with mental retardation and cerebral palsy and also manage the properties bequeathed to the Trust.

The Rights of PwDs Act, 2016: The Act gives effect to the United Nations Convention on the Rights of PwDs and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. Responsibility has been cast upon the appropriate governments to take effective measures to ensure that the PwDs enjoy their rights equally with others. Disability has been defined based on an evolving and dynamic concept.

The Mental Healthcare Act, 2017: The Mental Health Care Act, 2017 aims to ensure mental healthcare and services for persons with mental illness and to protect, promote and fulfill the rights of such persons during delivery of mental healthcare and services and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

National Policy for PwDs

The Department of Empowerment of PwDs, Government of India, has constituted a committee under the Chairpersonship of Secretary, DEPwD, to review the existing National Policy for PwDs, 2006 and suggest a new policy document taking into account the provisions of the RPwD Act, 2016, United Nations Conventions on the Rights of PwDs (UNCRPD) and global best practices in managing disability.

Some other Important Rights

Right to Education

The Right to Education Act promises new stimulus to the education of Children with Special Needs (CWSN), irrespective of the kind, category and degree of disability, for education in an enabling inclusive environment. Teacher's Qualifications notified by NCTE under section 23 of the RTE Act recognize persons with Special Education (D.Ed and B.Ed Special Education) as teachers on par with other teachers and the deployment of such teachers in general schools for optimum utilization is a positive development.

Right to Admission in Higher Education

As per Rights of PwDs Act, 2016, all institutions of higher education that receive government aid have to reserve at least 5% seats for persons with bench-mark disabilities and give them an age relaxation of minimum five years for admission.

Right to Employment

The Department of Personnel & Training has issued circular on January 15, 2018 to all the Ministries and Departments specifying 4% reservation for persons with benchmark disabilities in government jobs as specified under Section 34 of the RPwD Act, 2016.

Right to Legal Guardianship

Persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation and Multiple Disabilities are in a special situation as even after they have acquired 18 years of age, they may not always be capable of managing their own lives or taking legal decisions for their own betterment. Therefore, they may require someone to represent their interests in the legal areas throughout their lives. Under section 14 of the National Trust Act, the Local Level Committee headed by the District Collector is empowered to receive application and appoint for persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation and Multiple Disabilities. It also provides mechanism for monitoring and protecting their interests including their properties.

Right to Accessibility

To enable PwDs to live independently and participate fully in all aspects of life, appropriate measures are required to ensure to PwDs access, on an equal basis with others, to the physical environment, to transportation, to information and communications, including information and communications technologies and systems, and to other facilities and services open or provided to the public. These measures include the identification and elimination of obstacles and barriers to accessibility.

Right to Disability Certificate

A person with a disability who wishes to avail of the benefits under the Right to PwDs Act has to obtain a Disability Certificate from the Medical Authority notified for the purpose. The certificates are issued based on guidelines framed by the Department of PwDs, Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, Government of India. The State Governments are responsible for issuing Disability Certificates based on applications received from PwDs. Possession of medical reports explaining the type of their disability is essential, and the minimum degree of disability should be 40%. The certification process begins with the disabled person or the parents approaching the nearest District Hospital to obtain a Disability Certificate through the Medical Board. The Medical Board then forwards the cases to the medical sub-committees specialized for different types of disabilities.

Nodal Agency Ensuring Rights to Divyangjan

In order to give focused attention to policy issues and meaningful thrust to the activities aimed at welfare and empowerment of the PwDs, a separate Department of Empowerment of PwDs (Divyangjan) was carved out of the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment, Government of India. The Department acts as a nodal agency for matters pertaining to disability and PwDs including effecting closer coordination among different stakeholders.

Institutional Framework for Empowerment of PwDs

Extensive infrastructure has been developed by the Central Government. The Government of India has established 13 National Institutes under various ministries for empowerment of PwDs. In addition to National Institutes, the Ministry of Social Justice and Empowerment has also established 20 Composite Rehabilitation Centres (CRCs) for Skill Development, Rehabilitation and Empowerment of PwDs (Divyangjan), approximately 200 District Disability Rehabilitation Centres (DDRCs). 5. The Department of Empowerment of Persons with Disabilities, Government of India has constituted the Central Advisory Board on Disability vide notification dated November 08, 2017. The Central Advisory Board has met four times so far.

Challenges

Bringing an attitudinal change in the perception of general public towards Divyangjan remains the biggest challenge in India. Awareness generation is therefore key to change the mindset not only of the general public but also of persons with disabilities to increase their confidence. There is a greater need for the State Governments and the local bodies to imbibe the culture of accessibility standards at the designing, planning and execution stage for creating barrier free environment for PwDs.

MAHAPARINIRVAN DIWAS

Mahaparinirvan Diwas is observed every year on 6th December to commemorate the death anniversary of Dr. B R Ambedkar. Parinirvana is a Sanskrit term which means release or freedom after death. Ambedkar, having studied the religion extensively, emerged as a Buddhist leader and guru following his conversion to Buddhism. Owing to Ambedkar's status as a Buddhist leader, his death anniversary is referred to as Mahaparinirvana Diwas.

Also known as the Father of the Indian Constitution, Bhimrao Ramji Ambedkar (popularly known as Babasaheb) chaired the Drafting Committee of the Constituent Assembly and was India's First Minister for Law and Justice. A pioneering social reformer, jurist, economist, author, polyglot orator, scholar of comparative religions and thinker, he was a multi-faceted man who remapped the frontiers of human achievement by his sheer tenacity, perseverance and the will to excel against all odds. Dr. Ambedkar braved the walls of prejudice and caste discrimination in early 20th century India to emerge as an exemplar and an unflinching crusader against the inequities of caste system and socio-economic deprivation that afflicted millions of Indians. His life is an inspirational story of achievements despite trying circumstances and the indomitable will to move beyond individual strife for the larger cause of social justice and national renaissance.

Below are excerpts from Publications Division's book Builders of Modern India- Dr. B.R. Ambedkar by W.N. Kuber:

Dr. Ambedkar considered the foundations of religion to be essential to life and practices of society. According to him, religion was apart of one's "social inheritance". He wanted religion, but he did not want hypocrisy in the name of religion. Religion, to him, was the driving force for human activity. He remarked, "Man cannot live by bread alone. He has a mind which needs food for thought." He linked religion with the social well-being of the people. Ambedkar's journey to Buddhism can be traced over a span of about forty years. At the age of sixteen Keluskar gave him a copy of the life of Gautam Buddha. In 1945 he attended a Buddhist conference. On 20th June 1946, on behalf of People's Education Society, he started a college and named it Siddharth College. In 1948, he wrote a foreword to L. Narasu's book--'The essence of Buddhism'. In 1950, he took part in the first Modern Buddhist procession in Delhi. In December 1954, he took part in the Third World Federation of Buddhists. It is said that there he made up his mind to embrace Buddhism. Ambedkar was inclined towards Buddhism openly from May 1956. On 24th May 1956 he declared on the day of Buddha Jayanti celebrations at Nare Park in Bombay that he would embrace Buddhism in October 1956. On 23rd September 1956, he issued a press note announcing that his conversion to Buddhism would take place at Nagpur on the Dassahra day, October 14, 1956 between 9 and 11 a.m. He himself preferred Nagpur which was a historic town where the Buddhist Nagas flourished in ancient times. It is said that he deliberately waited up to the 2500th birthday of Buddha.

Ambedkar was a learned scholar, distinguished educationist, masterly statesman, powerful debater, daring liberator, authoritative constitutionalist, able administrator, famous defender of the revolutionary social reformation movement and a fearless champion of the downtrodden masses. Culture, wisdom, wit, humanism, instinct of reason, spirit of rationalism, reasonable ruthlessness for inequality, contempt for injustice and superstitions were harmoniously blended in right proportions. He was a versatile genius. Gandhiji remarked that he was fierce and fearless. He borrowed evidence from the scriptures to show that discrimination had been made part of religion to facilitate exploitation of bulk of the people by those who had managed to place themselves at the highest rung of the social ladder.

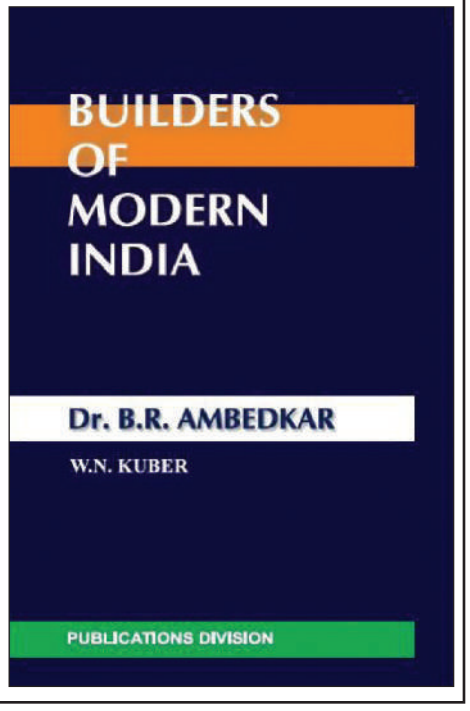

He subordinated the national struggle for independence and gave priority to the social emancipation of the untouchables. Gandhiji stressed that swaraj would be unattainable without the removal of untouchability. The nationalist movement was influenced by the above teachings of Gandhiji. Ambedkar united the untouchables, raised them to the level of human beings and put them on the social and political map of India. Because of his leadership the bonds between elite and masses have grown and an active educated middle class has been created which is to a great extent absorbed in government service. He realised that the political enemy of the untouchables in a democracy where the majority ruled, was not the Brahmin, (Though he was against Brahminism), but the dominant agri-cultural caste. He gave insistence on rights and privileges, to abolish Mahar Watan, and there by tried to break feudal bonds.

Ambedkar adopted the following principles in his political thinking: recognition of the force of nationalism; crusade for social, economic and political freedom in terms of liberty, equality and fraternity; a dislike for any type of imperialism-political, social, economic or religious; a commitment to constitutional methods as the only way, a detestation for violence and a love for justice and peace; a bias for democratic dynamism which sees man as the maker of civilisation and culture and as having the potential to rise on the basis of love and knowledge.

Ambedkar had submitted to the R.T.C. a scheme of political safeguards for the protection of the Depressed Classes in the future Constitution of a self-governing India. He demanded : (1) equal citizenship and fundamental rights; (2) declaring the practice of 'untouchability' as illegal; (3) free enjoyment of 'Equal Rights' protected by adequate constitutional remedies; (4) protection against discrimination; (5) adequate representation of the Depressed Classes in the Legislatures; adult suffrage and separate electorates to the Depressed Classes for ten years; (6) adequate representation in services; (7) redress against prejudicial action or neglect of interests-facilities for education, etc.; (8) special departmental care, special minister and welfare bureaus; and (9) seat in the Cabinet. If we examine the above demands, we can clearly remark that all these have been already brought into practice--thanks to the untiring efforts of Ambedkar and progressive democratic traditions of Indian nationalism. The Karachi Congress Resolution on fundamental rights was passed as early as April 1931. Gandhiji made removal of untouchability as one of the important programmes of the national movement. He said in 1920, "Without the removal of that taint, swaraj is meaningless."

In India, social idealism and political-idealism were opposed to each other. Ambedkar earnestly wished that the political idealism of the majority would become the social idealism of all. The essence of his all-India leadership could be seen in his loyalty to his community. He always placed the freedom and welfare of his community above the attainment of swaraj. But when swaraj was in sight he made a compromise with the national leadership. He did not dominate politics, but influenced important political decisions. Though he was the leader of his community he tried to secularise Indian politics. Impact of the west, rule of law, equality of citizens, political participation in law-making and policy decisions, massive efforts of social reforms by Raja Rammohan Roy, Ranade, Phooley, Agarkar and others; democratic liberalism, adult franchise--were some of the factors which contributed to the secular trends in Indian politics. The Preamble of the Indian Constitution is a unique instance. Dr. Ambedkar was a contributor to the above trend.

National integration was a burning problem. Education and economic development, rational and empirical outlook, modern science and technology, secular outlook to socio-economic problems and constitutional approach contributed much to national integration. Ambedkar discarded separatist tendencies, and tried to become one with the national trend. In this respect his contribution to national integration was great. He vitalised the national life of India. His constructive statesmanship carved a definite place for him in the line of the nation builders.

Swachh Amrit Mahotsav 2021

Swachhta Champions of Urban India Felicitated

Sameera Saurabh

The President of India Shri Ram Nath Kovind felicitated awardees of the Swachh Bharat Mission - Urban 2.0 during the 'Swachh Amrit Mahotsav' hosted as part of the Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav at Vigyan Bhavan, New Delhi on 20th November, 2021. The ceremony organized by the Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs (MoHUA) entailed felicitation of towns/ cities, States and Union Territories for their outstanding performance in implementing and realizing the goals of the various initiatives of the Swachh Bharat Mission (Urban), viz. Swachh Survekshan 2021, Safaimitra Suraksha Challenge, and certifications for garbage-free star rating for cities. The event saw more than 300 awards under various categories being given away.

Swachh Survekshan 2021

Indore bagged the title of India's Cleanest City under Swachh Survekshan for the fifth consecutive year, while Surat and Vijayawada bagged the second and third spots respectively in the 'more than 1 lakh population' category. In the population category of 'less than 1 lakh', Vita, Lonavala and Sasvad, all from Maharashtra, bagged the first, second and third positions respectively. Varanasi emerged as the 'Best Ganga Town' while Ahmedabad Cantonment won the title of 'India's Cleanest Cantonment', followed by Meerut Cantonment and Delhi Cantonment. Hoshangabad (Madhya Pradesh) emerged as the 'Fastest Mover City' (in the 'more than 1 lakh population' category) with a jump of 274 ranks from 361st position in the 2020 rankings to the 87th position this year, thus securing a place among the top 100 cities.

Chhattisgarh, for the third consecutive year emerged as the 'Cleanest State' in the category of "more than 100 Urban Local Bodies" while Jharkhand, for the second time, won the Cleanest State award in the "less than 100 ULBs category". Karnataka and Mizoram became the 'Fastest Mover States' in the big (more than 100 ULBs) and small (less than 100 ULBs) state category respectively.

This year's Survekshan, participated by 4,320 cities, also saw an unprecedented number of citizens' feedback - over 5 crores, compared to 1.87 cores last year. Despite the challenges posed by COVID-19, a team of over 2,000 assessors visited over 65,000 wards in a record time of 28 days. Maharashtra has successfully bagged a total of 92 awards, the highest by any State in this year's Survekshan, followed by Chhattisgarh with 67 awards. Additionally, under the Prerak Daaur Samman, a new performance category introduced under Swachh Survekshan 2021, five cities - Indore, Surat, Navi Mumbai, New Delhi Municipal Council and Tirupati were categorized as 'Divya' (Platinum).

Over the years, Swachh Survekshan (SS) has emerged as an effective tool for transforming the urban landscape. SS 2021 has also helped identify over 6,000 innovations and best practices in sanitation and waste management from across the urban India. The Hon'ble President has noted that good examples are coming out of the idea of 'Waste to Wealth' and many start-ups are active in this area and that appropriate schemes could be developed to encourage entrepreneurship and investment in this area.

Safaimitra Suraksha Challenge

Safaimitras, the frontline soldiers of Swachh Bharat Mission-Urban were also felicitated to commemorate World Toilet Day (19 November). The top performers under the first ever Safaimitra Suraksha Challenge were recognized. Indore, Navi Mumbai, Nellore and Dewas emerged as the top performers, across different population categories among 246 participating cities in the Safaimitra Suraksha Challenge, launched last year by the Government to eradicate human fatalities from hazardous cleaning of sewers and septic tanks. Among the States, Chhattisgarh and Chandigarh bagged the award for best performing State and Union Territory under the Safaimitra Suraksha Challenge. In the last one year, the Safaimitra Suraksha Challenge has been able to propel the 'manhole to machinehole' revolution in urban India through initiatives such as credit linkages of Safaimitras with banks through the National Safai Karamchari Financial Development Corporation (NSKFDC), on-the-job trainings through the Sector Skill Council for Green Jobs and setting up of helpline number 14420 in over 190 cities - a citizens' grievance platform.

Garbage-Free Star Rating for Cities

A total of 9 cities - Indore, Surat, New Delhi Municipal Council, Navi Mumbai, Ambikapur, Mysuru, Noida, Vijayawada and Patan- have been certified as 5 star cities while 143 cities have been certified as 3 star. The Star Rating Protocol of Garbage Free Cities was introduced as a SMART framework by MoHUA in 2018, to holistically evaluate cities across solid waste management parameters. In 2018, only 56 cities were awarded certification on some star rating. This year, the number has gone up manifold with 2,238 cities applying for the assessment. The mammoth exercise was completed successfully despite the COVID-19 restrictions as is evidenced in the numbers - 1.4 crore photographic evidence collected across 3.5 crore data points, along with 14.19 lakh citizen validation and 1 lakh locations covered during the assessment period.

Mission Objectives

The Swachh Bharat Mission - Urban (SBM-U), launched on 2nd October 2014 aims at making urban India free from open defecation and achieving 100% scientific management of municipal solid waste in 4,041 statutory towns in the country. Swachh Bharat Mission has been working for the betterment of the society by raising people's standard of living through sanitation, hygiene and safe water leading to economic upliftment and better health.

The objectives of the mission are mentioned below:

- Elimination of open defecation
- Eradication of manual scavenging
- Modern and scientific municipal solid waste management
- To effect behavioral change regarding healthy sanitation practices
- Generate awareness about sanitation and its linkage with public health
- Capacity augmentation for urban local bodies
- To create an enabling environment for private sector participation in Capex (capital expenditure) and Opex (operation and maintenance)

Recent events

To ensure a continuous engagement and higher awareness among the citizens, a participatory approach for implementation of the Swachh Bharat Mission is being executed in the form of theme-based cleanliness drives on regular intervals, which are specific to a sector. Theme-based interventions are conducted, targeting core city spaces and areas. Depending upon the specific theme, relevant government departments and entities are engaged to facilitate the implementation of the drives and participation by relevant stakeholders. The launch of the Swachh Bharat Mission-Urban 2.0 and AMRUT- 2.0 by Hon'ble Prime Minister on 1st October, 2021 was a landmark event.

Earlier, on 27th September 2021 the 'Swachh Survekshan 2022' was launched. On the same day, 'Kachra Alag Karo Amrit Diwas' was observed during which all over India, door to door campaign by groups of Swachhagrahis for source segregation by Urban Local Bodies (ULBs) in Wards/Resident Welfare Associations (RWAs) was undertaken. Felicitation of best performing Resident Welfare Associations, Slum Development Authorities, and others was also done on the day. Sarvjanik Sauchalaya Safai Jan Bhagidari Amrit Utsav was celebrated during 28th -29th September 2021 under which community and public toilets cleanliness feedback by citizens was taken.

Safaimitra Samman Amrit Samaroh was also organized on 2nd and 3rd October where a virtual interaction and loan disbursement to Safaimitras was held and digital displays for sensitizing the citizens was arranged. Felicitation of waste processing entrepreneurs, and waste to art exhibitions/display of 'Bartan Bhandars' was also organized.

Technological interventions

Technology has played a critical role in achieving the outcomes under SBM-U's journey in the last seven years. Taking a giant leap forward in this digital journey, the Ministry has revamped the Swachh Bharat Mission-Urban 2.0 website and the integrated MIS portal 'Swachhatam'. The 'Swachhata App 2.0' is a pan-India civic technology platform that gives the public options to report public urination spots, locate and rate public toilets. Additionally, a futuristic and state-of-the-art spatial GIS platform has been launched that will further propel the mission towards smart, data driven decision making. These new digital enablement will further enable the mission to become paperless, robust and transparent, along with round-the-clock connectivity with States, Cities and stakeholders across the Swachhata spectrum.

SALUTING THE GUARDIANS OF THE OCEAN

INDIAN NAVY DAY SPECIAL (DECEMBER 4)

India has a rich maritime heritage, and the Rig Veda contains the earliest reference to maritime activities. Indian mythology has numerous episodes pertaining to the ocean, the sea, and the rivers. There is plenty of evidence derived from Indian literature, art, sculptures, painting, and archaeology to establish the existence of maritime traditions. A study of the country's maritime history reveals that the Indian sub-continent exercised supremacy over the Indian Ocean from early to the 13th Century. As we celebrate the Swarnim Vijay Varsh, marking the 50th year of India's historic victory in the 1971 war, let us know more about the Indian Navy.

Indian Navy Day: Historical Background

On October 21, 1944, the then Royal Indian Navy celebrated Navy Day for the first time. The idea behind celebrating Navy Day was to foster greater outreach and increase awareness about the Navy. The celebrations involved conducting parades at various port cities and holding public meetings at inland centers. The initiative garnered considerable success and aroused great enthusiasm among the public. Taking a cue from this success, the Royal Indian Navy decided to organize similar functions every year on a larger scale. It was also decided to shift the date to a time when the weather would be more pleasant. Accordingly, Navy Day in 1945 was celebrated at Bombay and Karachi on December 1.

Gaurav Stambh - commemorating 'Victory at Sea'

With the partition of India, post-independence, the Royal Indian Navy got divided into the Royal Indian Navy and the Royal Pakistan Navy. With India becoming a Republic on 26th January 1950, the prefix 'Royal' was dropped, and the force was rechristened as the Indian Navy. On 26th January 1950, the Crown of the Royal Indian Navy's Crest was replaced by the Ashoka Lion Motif for the Indian Navy's Emblem. Invoking Lord Varuna (The Sea God as mentioned in the Vedas), the Indian Navy adopted the motto: "Sam no Varunah," meaning: "Be auspicious unto us Oh Varuna!". Also, the inscription of "Satyamev Jayate" was placed below the State Emblem in the Indian Navy's Crest.

EN EXPLAINS

Until 1972, India celebrated Navy Day on 15th December. The week in which the date fell was observed as the Navy Week. In May 1972, the Senior Naval Officers Conference decided to celebrate Navy Day on 4th December to commemorate the successful naval actions in the Arabian Sea and the Bay of Bengal during the 1971 India-Pakistan War and celebrate Navy Week from 1st to 7th December.

1971 War

4th December has great significance in the history of India and the Indian Navy as it marks a decisive victory for India when the boats of the Indian Navy, during Operation Trident in the 1971 India-Pakistan War, successfully fired their missiles onto ships, oil installations, and shore defense installations of Pakistan at Karachi. During the 1971 operations, the Indian Navy sunk many Pakistani ships carrying war logistics and critical equipment. The fighter aircraft from the deck of INS Vikrant struck at the enemy harbors and airfield at Chittagong and Khulna, destroying ships, defense facilities, and installations. Both the missile strikes at Karachi and air attacks from Vikrant led to the defeat of Pakistani Forces in East Pakistan.

Operation Trident: This operation comprised the first missile attack on Karachi harbor, on the night of 04/05 December 1971, by Indian Naval Ships Kiltan, Katchall, Nipat, Nirghat and Veer. During the maiden missile boat operation after independence, the Indian Navy destroyed and sank PNS Khyber (a Pakistani destroyer), PNS Muhafiz (a coastal minesweeper), and merchant vessel MV-Venus Challenger. This operation was also a watershed in ingenuity and strategic thinking as the Indian Navy used its Aircraft Carrier INS Vikrant to tow these smaller missile boats close to the Pakistani ports. This strategy brought the ports within the missile range of the boats, a move unthinkable until then.

Operation Python: Indian Naval Ships Trishul, Talwar, and Vinash carried out the second missile attack on Keamari oil field at Karachi on 08/09 December 1971. The Indian Navy set ablaze oil tanks during the attack, sank two merchant vessels (Harmatton and Gulf Star), and destroyed Pakistan Navy's tanker PNS Dacca. With the attack, the Indian Navy achieved maritime dominance off the approaches to Karachi.

Operation Beaver: In this significant joint-amphibious operation, the Naval task force established a total blockade in the Bay of Bengal, and the Eastern Army Command rapidly advanced into East Pakistan (04-08 December 1971) following a clever assessment that the Pakistani troops, to prevent arrest, would attempt to escape southward into Burma through Cox's Bazaar. Accordingly, an amphibious landing was conducted on 15th December 1971 at Cox's Bazaar by two Indian Landing Ship Tanks (LST), INS Gharial and Guldar. The 'Romeo Force' contingent, which embarked on board the LST consisted of 1/3 Gorkha Rifles, 02 companies of 11 Bihar, 881 Light Battery, an Ambulance Platoon, and an ASC Detachment. The LSTs landed a part of the 'Romeo Force' at Reju Creek near Cox Bazaar. These forces subsequently cordoned off the southern approaches from East Pakistan to achieve strategic advantage during the war. Action by the Indian Armed forces led to the emergence of Bangladesh as an independent nation.

What does the Navy do?

The full range of operations in which a nation's naval forces may be involved is vast, ranging from high-intensity warfighting at one end to humanitarian assistance and disaster relief operations at the other. This broad continuum of operations can be broken down into distinct roles, each demanding a specific approach to the conduct of operations. The Indian Navy has four prominent roles: Military, Diplomatic, Constabulary, and Benign.

The objective of the Indian Navy's military role is deterrence/ dissuasion against any intervention or act which is against our national interests and the ability to inflict a crushing defeat on the adversary in the event of hostilities.

A major objective of the Indian Navy's Constabulary role is to ensure coastal and offshore security and implement anti-piracy measures in conjunction with the Coast Guard and other Central and State agencies.

The Indian Navy has been actively pursuing capability building and capacity enhancement of Navies of friendly countries in the Indian Occan Region (IOR). Towards this end, India has been providing hardware and platforms, including ships and aircraft, for Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ) surveillance. Indian Navy (IN) has also been instrumental in the development of the maritime infrastructure of friendly nations. The IN is also involved in several overseas operations and maritime exercises. Moreover, the Indian Navy (IN) has been playing a leadership role in the maritime activities in the IOR due to its multi-dimensional capabilities and active presence in the region. India's maritime neighborhood environment is dynamic with instabilities, geopolitical and ethnic fault lines, growing military capabilities, and a wide range of security challenges. These pose a combination of conventional and sub-conventional threats to India, at and from the seas. These threats and challenges require the Indian Navy to remain effective across the entire spectrum of combat operations and constantly reshape itself to meet future challenges.

The 'benign' role is so named because violence has no part to play in its execution, nor is the potential to apply force a necessary prerequisite for undertaking these operations. For example, search and rescue, ordnance disposal.

COVID-19 Response

The Indian Navy launched Operation' Samudra Setu,' meaning 'Sea Bridge,' as a part of a national effort to repatriate Indian citizens overseas. The operation was launched in May 2020 as part of the national effort to bring back Indian citizens overseas during the COVID-19 pandemic. In support of the nation's fight against the pandemic in the second phase early this year, the Indian Navy launched 'Operation Samudra Setu II.' Seven Indian Naval ships were deployed to transport liquid medical oxygen-filled cryogenic containers and associated medical equipment from various countries.

Prime Minister Lays Foundation Stone of Noida International Airport

Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi laid the foundation stone of the Noida International Airport at Jewar in Gautam Buddha Nagar of Uttar Pradesh on 25th November 2021. Addressing the gathering, Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi said that the new airport will play an instrumental role in development of the region by paving the way for modern infrastructure. "Better roads, better rail networks, and better airports are not just infrastructure projects but they transform the entire region by transforming people's lives," the PM said. This airport will become a logistics game changer. The hub will host a multi-modal transit hub including metro train and high-speed rail stations, taxi, and bus services. Moreover, this future-ready airport will be equipped with maintenance, repair and overhauling service for aircrafts.

By facilitating seamless movement of industrial products, the airport will play a crucial role in helping the region attract huge investments, boost rapid industrial growth, enable reach of local products to national and international markets and promote tourism. "This hub will serve

- First Indian airport to start operation with 'Net Zero Emissions'
- India's largest international airport spread over more than 1300 hectares of land
- Fifth international airport in Uttar Pradesh
- Second international airport in the National Capital Region (NCR)
- Capacity to serve around 1.2 crore passengers a year

change the economic landscape of Uttar Pradesh, especially the western part of the State. "It will make the entire region a powerful reflection of the National Gatishakti Masterplan," he added.

Logistics game changer

For the first time an airport in India is going to be integrated with a multi-modal cargo hub, with a focus on reducing total cost and time for logistics. The cargo hub will have an initial capacity of 20 lakh metric tonnes which will be gradually expanded to 80 lakh metric tonnes. Termed by the Prime Minister as the 'Logistics Gateway of Northern India', the project is, therefore, poised to provide a major push to exports from the region, thus creating a gamut of employment opportunities for the youth. It will be a crucial facilitator for the district hub export initiative under the new foreign trade policy that envisages making each district of India, an export hub. "The airport will attract investments worth 60 thousand crore rupees after becoming operational and will create over a lakh employment opportunities," Civil Aviation Minister Jyotiraditya Scindia said while addressing the foundation-laying ceremony.

industrial centres like Aligarh, Mathura, Meerut, Agra, Bijnor, Moradabad and Bareilly. Khurja's artisans, Meerut's sports industry, Saharanpur's furniture, brass industry of Moradabad, Agra's footwear and Petha industry will get huge support from the upcoming infrastructure," the Prime Minister noted.

Situated near major expressways like Yamuna Expressway, Western Peripheral Expressway, Eastern Peripheral Expressway, Delhi-Mumbai Expressway, this airport will facilitate trade and commerce in a big way. The airport will also be linked with the Delhi-Varanasi High Speed Rail, enabling smooth and fast journey between Delhi and the airport in only 21 minutes. The proposed site is close to major tourist attractions like Agra, Vrindavan, Mathura which will provide a boost to the tourism sector.
